The Mule Trade.—The Paris Kentuckian, of the 29th, says: "H. F. Hilder reports to us that he sold four work mules to Archy Bedford at $237.50 per head.
Jesse Boulden returned on Friday from Pennsylvania, where he sold 60 head of mules that cost $100 one year ago, at $165 per head.
B. S. Letton has returned from Georgia, bringing two negroes with him; but whether he exchanged mules for them or not we did not learn.
H. C. Bedford ships an extra lot of three-year-olds to Pennsylvania this morning.
Jeff Kenney, who accompanied Smith & Robinson's mules last September to Alabama, has returned. They shipped 214 head, and had sold all but 30 head.
Jno. Tarr sold mules in Pennsylvania at $120 that cost him $79 here a short time since.
Henry Butler reports that he sold Pole Kenney's mules in Pennsylvania at comparatively good prices.
Zed. Offutt, who has been in Georgia since October, is at home, with a report of her times. Some parties who had held 100 mules there for months, had not sold over five head. Mules, which is generally a good market, has now no trade in mules.
An Indian reports to us that he took a lot to Georgia, and returned with all but two, which he had traded for watches.
Charley Clark, who accompanied Alex. McClintock to Georgia, is again at home, buying more mules for shipment. He thinks the market will improve in February. Cheap mules can be sold by sharp traders.
Joe Scott has returned from New Orleans, having exchanged his mules on Red River for 400 head of stock cattle.

New Firm.—Messrs. Wm. B. Preston, B. W. Wood, and T. K. Ball have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of transacting a general grocery, grain, commission, and forwarding business in this city. The style of the new firm is Preston, Wood & Co. They have removed from Wall street and now occupy No. 15 on Market, formerly occupied, we believe, by Thomas & Dorsey, which is one of the most commodious store houses in Maysville. They have on hand a fresh and choice supply of groceries of every description, among which we especially mention genuine New Orleans sugar and the finest teas. The firm is composed of energetic and substantial men, and we bespeak for them a fair share of public patronage.

W. S. Downey.—We regret to learn from the Lexington Statesman, that Maj. Wm. S. Downey is lying dangerously ill at the Phoenix Hotel in that city. Maj. Downey has been Commonwealth's Attorney in the Ashland District for nearly twelve years, and in that position has won deserved distinction. As an ecologist he has few equals in Kentucky, and as a collegianist no superior. We became attached to him in our early youth by his genial disposition and true manliness and would regret his loss as that of a friend. The death of Major Downey would be felt as a public loss by any community.

The River.—The Ohio is full of floating ice today, heavier than at any time during the winter and in larger cakes. The ice is evidently from some of the gorges in the upper river, as it is covered with snow. The weather yesterday and last night was very cold, and this morning the mercury was two degrees below zero. The Boston passed down last night, and the Magnolia came up and will go down again today. It may be expected, however, that we will not have another boat for several days, as navigation amidst such ice is attended with great danger.

We advise the brilliant editor of the Lexington Observer not to try calling us General. It might not succeed in propitiating us any better than he did the young lady by calling her "dearest." If he has any love for his family, and is not sick of this world he will not venture on it. We have no wish to be a murderer, but it won't do to put a woman's affront at that kind on us. "Colonel" would be enough, but "General" would make us desperate.

Insurance.—We call the attention of our readers to the condition of the Home Fire Insurance Company, of New York—showing net assets of $3,500,000. It is notorious among those well informed in insurance matters that the "Home" is one of the leading companies in this country, both as regards wealth and good management. Those wanting reliable information get it by calling upon Jos. F. Brodick, agent for this city and county.

Quick Time.—We received on Friday the Deseret News, published at Salt Lake City on January 10th. Fifteen days from the Missouri Pacific, and it is the first of the year.

The Concert on Friday Night.—Who attended the concert given on Friday evening, January 31st, by the amiable pupils of the Visitation Academy in this city, can forget the many charms which were there presented? About 7 o'clock the curtain was raised, and a most beautiful scene greeted the eager eyes of an immense audience. The stage exquisitely decorated with flowers, evergreens, and pictures, was graced by seven lovely forms seated at as many musical instruments, viz: A harp, melodeon, two pianos, and three guitars, from which, by the skillful action of their fairy like fingers, was drawn forth the martial strains of a grand march, to which the remaining pupils of the school kept the most exact time, as entering in couples, and bowing modestly, they passed on to the places reserved for them at each end of the stage. Before proceeding further we must remark that during the whole evening the most perfect ease and self-possession were united to that timid retirement which should ever form the striking characteristic of female deportment. Thus showing by their elegant carriage of manner, the interior refinement of soul, which is not the least among the many charms of convent education; for, under the charge of the kind Sisters—while the flowers of learning are carefully cultivated—the thorns of passion are as assiduously destroyed, and thus their pupils are prepared to become, not frivolous slaves of vanity, but true and noble women.

Among the many pleasing features of the delightful entertainment, were the Aurora Waltzes, played by six little girls; "The Graces," by three others; the "Clock Song," sung by the see little girls and Woman's Rights, spoken by one under ten years. Also, Cathleen MacEverson, played by quite a small child. The Fire Chorus were most charming, and those who have attended Italian Operas, say that they equalled in exactness of time, and taste of execution, any heard there. Among the instrumental pieces, we must mention La Diamant, a solo, most brilliantly executed by a young lady of about fourteen years of age; also, the Harp music, performed by two little nymphetts, who seemed the very personification of innocence and grace. The Dramas were most successful, the Talisman was a perfect representation of vanity and fashion, revers charity, and the distinct articulation of the notes bore testimony that the important branch of elocution had not been neglected. With regard to the beautiful drama, the "Crowned and Uncrowned," so many and pleasing were its charms, that a repetition was requested by many, and would have formed a most delightful close for the evening. We cannot but regret that our honorable Representative in the Legislature was not present to witness the native grace with which his daughters acquitted themselves. How happy are the people of Maysville to possess such an institution. May God bless the good Sisters, and enable them to complete soon their magnificent Academy.

Election.—We direct especial attention to the notice of the County Judge that the election of a Board of Directors of the Maysville and Lexington Railroad Company, Northern Division, will be held in the Council Chamber in this city, on Thursday, the 6th inst. It is important that every subscriber of stock shall be present. Seven Directors are to be elected, who will elect a President. We have confidence in the election of capable men, who will be friends and not enemies of the enterprise.

To be hung.—If he does not escape or commit suicide in the meantime, James Love will be hung by the neck until he is dead, on Friday, February 13th. Gov. Stevenson has rightly refused to pardon him. This will be the first case of a white man being hung for rape in this State. Unless the prevalence of the crime ceases we hope it will not be the last.

Nobby.—A writer in the Northern Monthly commenting on the common use of localisms in this country, says: "I know of a case where an English nobleman was quite captivated at first sight with a young lady belonging to the 'first circles' of Philadelphia, but who was disenchanted when he heard her use of localisms, and said to a friend subsequently, 'She is beautiful as an houri; her loveliness almost bewitched me; but I could never marry an ignoramus.' Did she 'hexasperate the haitch'?"

The Wheat Crop.—We learn that the wheat sown late in the fall has all been destroyed by alternate thaws and frozes. The early wheat has been injured, but there is still a prospect of a good crop. It has numerous enemies, however, to contend with before harvest. With a good crop of wheat and corn our farmers will be greatly relieved from the monetary pressure of which they now complain.

Navigation.—The Telegraph passed down on Thursday night, but will lay up until the river is clear of ice. Captain Honshel reported the river full of newly made ice, very sharp and cutting. The steamer Curtis, which left Cincinnati on Tuesday, 28th, reached this city on Friday, 31st. Navigation is suspended and will be for a week or more.

The Citizen.—The Paris Citizen has changed hands, having been transferred to F. L. McCune and Geo. T. Fisher, who will hereafter conduct the paper as joint proprietors and co-editors. The paper will be Democratic in politics. We wish the gentlemen success in their enterprise. The Citizen is one of the oldest papers in Kentucky, but the vigor of youth will be infused into it by the energy of the present owners.

Perjury.—Dr. J. C. Beck has been indicted for false swearing by a Campbell County Grand Jury. He was or is connected with the Kentucky Mutual Insurance Company, which has disappointed its policy holders—slightly. Col. Smith came to this city under the auspices of Dr. Beck. The public understand that the editor of the Eagle was not taken in by Smith, but he confesses that he was done for by Beck.

It is sixty-five miles from Maysville to Cincinnati, but at this time one has to travel forty-eight miles by stage and eighty miles by railroad to get from one place to the other. To make any one a strong railroad man we prescribe a ride in a crowded stage from Maysville to Paris. It costs about ten dollars to get from this place to Cincinnati. Almost every winter Maysville is thus bound in and shut out by ice.

Circuit Court in Robertson.—The first session of the Circuit Court in Robertson was held last week, Judge Doniphan presiding. The day in Mr. Oliver passed off without disturbance. Messrs. Stanton & Throop returned to Maysville on Friday last.

Election of Councilman.—Mr. W. W. Pike was elected councilman in the First Ward at the special election on Saturday. His opponents were T. C. Campbell and Morris Hutcheson.

Democratic Meeting in Flemingsburg. Pursuant to a call from the Chairman of the Central Committee the Democracy of Flemingsburg assembled in convention in the Court House, the proceedings of which is given below:

On motion of T. C. Newcomb, F. R. Davis was appointed to the Chair, and M. M. Tesler as Secretary. Any motion being now in order, Charles Fleming moved the appointment of a committee of one from each precinct in the county to select delegates to the State Convention to be held at Frankfort on the 22d of February, and to nominate a candidate for Governor. The committee after deliberating, reported the following gentlemen as delegates: From Flemingsburg—H. B. Franklin, L. A. Welch, T. C. Newcomb, Charles Fleming, Jos. Marshall, E. A. Roberts, Blawie—H. C. Jones, O. W. Bishop, W. W. Wells, Conville—J. H. Runyan, Geo. W. Caywood, W. H. Cord, Sherburne—Arch Prether, Jno. R. Ricketts, W. C. Newcomb, Hillsboro—Robt. Graham, Elias Markwell, Jas. Newman—M. Carmel—T. A. Henderson, A. Foxworth, Poplar Plains—Dr. R. T. Samuel, E. Logan, Samuel E. Armstrong, which report was adopted.

On motion the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to draft resolutions: D. K. Weis, A. E. Cole, L. A. Welch, S. E. Armstrong and W. P. Jones, who referred for deliberation, after which they reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Democracy of Flemingsburg strictly adhere to the doctrine of State Rights, as enunciated in the Constitution of the United States, and the Resolutions of 1788, as the true theory of our Republican System, and that the people of the States alone have the right to control the legislation in their respective States.

Resolved, That taxation without representation is unjust and tyrannical, and any Government administered on this principle is a despotism unworthy the name of a Republic.

Resolved, That we are bitterly opposed to the Federal Government regulating the status of the negro in Kentucky, and her sister States, the South.

Resolved, That hostilities having ceased, we denounce every scheme or plan of expropriation, and respectfully ask the President of the United States to issue an unconditional, universal amnesty proclamation, inviting home all who are now in exile for political opinions, and that the people of the States should be the money for the officeholder and the bondholder, and that we favor the payment of the bonded debt of the United States in greenbacks, and the payment of the members of the Kentucky General Assembly in the same, instead of coin, as was provided during their last session.

Resolved, That we favor the holding of the District Convention to nominate a Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney, at Flemingsburg on the Thursday preceding the 31st of May.

Resolved, That we, the Democracy of Flemingsburg, favor the nomination of George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, for President, and Thos. H. Seymour, of Connecticut, for Vice President of the United States, in the next Presidential contest, and that we recommend to our State Convention to confer with the Judge Emory Whitaker, of Mason county, as an elector for the Congressional district.

On motion of L. A. Welch, the following gentlemen were appointed a Central Committee for the ensuing year: H. J. Darnall, A. Toner, A. E. Cole, Jas. Sausley, E. Logan, Elias Markwell, D. Adams, J. A. Olanoff, Squire Barlin, John Peck and John Blair.

It was ordered that the proceedings of this meeting be sent for publication to the Flemingsburg Democrat, Maysville Eagle, Maysville Bulletin and Frankfort Freeman.

F. R. Davis, Chairman.
M. M. Tesler, Secretary.

The Railroad Meeting in Flemingsburg. FLEMINGSBURG, KY., January 27th, 1868.
Pursuant to notice the people of Flemingsburg assembled at the Court House to hear an address by Hon. L. W. Andrews on the R. R. question.

Upon motion of A. E. Cole, D. K. Weis, Esq., was called to the Chair, and upon motion of J. C. Newcomb A. E. Cole was chosen Secretary.

Senator Doolittle's late speech in the Senate gave below such extracts from this speech as will afford a comprehensive view of the same:

But, sir, why press this negro supremacy over the white? What reason can you give? I have heard three distinct answers to this question worthy of notice.

First. Because the States of the South rejected the constitutional amendment submitted by Congress.

Second. Because the negroes are loyal and the whites disloyal; and Third. Because it will secure party ascendancy.

Let us consider the first answer, that the States of the South have rejected the constitutional amendment submitted by the last Congress as a basis of reconstruction.

True, I admit they did reject the amendment. But now did they reject it? By the votes of their Legislatures. They could reject it in no other way, for it was only their Legislatures that Congress submitted the question. But how could their Legislatures reject it if they had no Legislatures at all? If they had Legislatures which could reject it they would have no Congress to submit the question to do either the highest act of a Legislature, for it then acts upon the fundamental law not only of its own State and people, but of all the States of the Union.

Conceding they had power as you claim, to reject your amendment, by that shadow of right you deny to those Legislatures power to choose Senators in this day.

As well to deny a living body the right to breathe.

But perhaps you say if they had ratified the amendment then they had Legislatures which had the right to reject it. Let us reject it in no other way, for it was only their Legislatures that Congress submitted the question. But how could their Legislatures reject it if they had no Legislatures at all? If they had Legislatures which could reject it they would have no Congress to submit the question to do either the highest act of a Legislature, for it then acts upon the fundamental law not only of its own State and people, but of all the States of the Union.

Conceding they had power as you claim, to reject your amendment, by that shadow of right you deny to those Legislatures power to choose Senators in this day.

As well to deny a living body the right to breathe.

As honor to the radical chief, the great man, who, with all his talents, and great a man to resort to subtle arts or sham, or to attempt to conceal his real purpose in this legislation.

Some who favor these measures do not admit this. But the truth is, in some way or other he does lead or drive the radical party in the end into the support of all his revolutionary schemes. Now and then one shrinks back. More than once I have seen the "good judge" who is now a full and stout to obey the lash of his master. Would to Heaven they were otherwise! Would to Heaven that the radical party could pause and modify its suicidal policy! But I fear the majority have become so much of a party, and so much of a party, that they cannot pause; that, however much some may regret or strive to conceal right, political necessities compel them to go on, and to go on to the bitter end. You have staked your all upon it. You must live or die by it.

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. Wilson] says by authority, says, "We will take up our backs, and in this respect, in our letter, we will say, 'Not a hair's breadth.' Such a fear, is the fatal resolution taken by the majority.

The result of the recent elections, showing that a majority in the Senate and in the States is opposed to that policy, so far as changing a resolution from which the radical party dare not retreat, is pushing it out to our measure of despair. It seems that the majority in the North and West is actually lost. It dare not exude the South in the next election. The South must be forced at the point of the bayonet; by white disfranchisement and negro suffrage, to vote for the radical candidate, or he will be lost.

The Drudge.

There is many a drudge who commences life as one, who continues to be one through his youth and manhood—drudges on in his declining days, and dies, bowed down by a life time of hard labor, his rest for years preceding his demise having been broken by a chronic cough, and his locomotive powers impeded by long standing, settled and painful rheumatism.

A drudge has had it instilled into his mind by education and by religion, by example and precept, that every man ought to earn his bread by the "sweat of his brow,"—that, by right, every man should labor with his hands to the full extent of his bodily power. The drudge works on, and as a farmer soon relies on his power of enduring hard labor to carry him on to a state of independence, and if a temperate man and economical, he will accumulate sufficient property to end his days in ease and peace; but the habit has so settled on the good old soul, that he cannot rest by day or night—he must be doing some thing, and in spite of cough and rheumatism, work he must and work he will, and so he lives and so he dies, a drudge. If this man has taught to sell, he will take it to a store, or take what is offered by some drover, and being but little acquainted with market rates, and having no opportunity of acquiring any correct judgment in trading, he probably loses more than enough in this way to pay an extra farm laborer all the year round.

Industry is undoubtedly a virtue of the first order, but many a man supposes it only applies to bodily labor, and many men have passed through life in insignificance, who, by industriously cultivating their minds, might have risen to eminence, and done much more to benefit their fellow beings; and probably their application of mind, wisely directed, would have been of very great advantage to posterity. Thus every parent is sadly deficient in proper training, if he does not give his children the chance to expand their minds as well as to develop their muscle, and any man or set of men who only keep a soul open for two or three months in the year, and that at a time when the weather is too inclement for constant attendance, ought to be scouted by the best society, as a mean, contemptible crew. The drudge says: "I had little education, and I have my farm free of mortgage, and so have a dozen of my acquaintances; therefore, depend upon it, you will unfit your boy for work by so much learning."

There are men, though, worse than the drudge—men who, by inheritance or by some lucky circumstance, have come into wealth, who think that because they are fortunate, every body less so, ought to drudge and be kept down.

CULTURE OF CELERY.

It is easy to raise and preserve this vegetable, and the taste for it is so much increased by use, that we are surprised that it is not grown in every garden. We set out our plants in trenches rather late, and hill up for the last three or four weeks. Late in the fall in a dry day we gather the plants, pressing the stalks of each one together to keep out the dirt, and set them out near as possible together in boxes in the cellar, in earth taken from the garden, heaping it up to the top of the plant. In this way the plant keeps alive, and continues to branch and is ready for use any time in the winter. The year we neglected to get in our plants till the ground was pretty well frozen, and they were covered with snow. We broke off the frozen earth on each side, and cut out the plants, finding them not frozen except the leaves at the top, and they are doing as well as ever in our cellar. If any one has not been used to celery much, let him use it a little, and particularly at dinner or breakfast occasionally, with a little salt, and he will go to salads giving enough. We should as soon think of giving up our corn, peas, beans or potatoes in our garden as our celery. We are aware that the use of celery in general now, but like the use of tomatoes it should be universal. It is a good winter vegetable, always at hand when the variety of other vegetables is not large, and, therefore, the more valuable for that.

STATE NEWS.

ST. LOUIS GRENDEL.—A petition to the President has been prepared and signed by a large majority of the members of the Legislature, asking that this chivalrous and gallant Englishman may be pardoned and restored to his friends.—Lex. Gazette.

SEVEN negro women and girls created quite a disturbance on the hill Tuesday night, which resulted in the whole party being arrested and confined in jail. One of the negroes had purchased a bottle of whisky, and on entering the kitchen of the house where she was employed, pretended as though she was drunk—rolling on the floor and making a great deal of noise, when her mother let into her with a board creating a general fight and melee among the whole party, and alarming the neighborhood, which attracted the police and caused the arrest of the parties. They were each amused to the tune of $10 and costs.—Lex. Statesman, 30th.

PROMOTED.—Lieut. John H. Todd, of the United States cavalry, and a resident of Frankfort, has, we learn, been promoted to first Lieutenant of the same regiment. Lieutenant Todd was a late Captain in the volunteer service, and was married about a year since to the beautiful and accomplished Miss Bonnie Broadhead, who charmed the many visitors to the capital for several winters, by her lovely and fascinating manners. We congratulate the Captain upon his promotion, and the Government upon having the services of so gallant an officer.—Ibid.

HON. BRUCE J. CLAY, ex-member of Congress, passed through the city on Tuesday last, from Mississippi on his way to Bourbon. He gave a gloomy description of affairs down South. He seems to be enjoying fine health, and is looking as stalwart as ever.—Ibid.

VERDICT IN THE BRIDGE CASE.—The jury in the case of Oscar H. Burbridge, who was tried in the Criminal Court in Covington, Ky., on the charge of shooting A. J. Morey with intent to kill, brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was accordingly discharged.—Ibid.

NEWS has reached this city of the death of Dr. John W. Jackson, in Georgia, at the hands of his son, John W. Jackson, Jr. The newspaper account says he was killed in a family altercation. Dr. Jackson was a man of violent temper, and occasionally treated his family with great roughness. Doubtless in one of these fits of passion he had commenced the altercation which terminated so sadly. Dr. Jackson was a man of some prominence in this State. In 1860 he was a Douglas elector for this district, but soon after the election of Mr. Lincoln espoused the rebel cause. He left the State in 1862, with Kirby Smith, but did not enter the army. He returned to Lexington in 1865, and remained about one year, then returned South. His wife, a most estimable lady, is the daughter of the late Col. Henry C. Payne.—Ibid.
